The vast music hall in which the conven-tion was held was packed to its utmost capacity long before the hour of meeting arrived. The decorations, as usual, con-sisted largely of the American colors. Suspended above the stage was a vast floral decoration bearing in letters the greeting: "Democrats of Ohio, Welcome to Cleveland." An appeal from the decision of the chair was ruled out of order. The minority believed the Democratic party could win on the tariff, and that it is not in the province of the Democratic convention to take up the fight of the Republican Senators of Montana, Nevada and Colorado, the fight of millionaires.

Chairman Norton then formally opened the convention in a brief but stirring address. Norton denounced the Republican facts in so that he province of the Demorate party and the McKinley tariff bill in the usual terms, and ascerted that everything good under the constitution was the inspiration of the Democratic party. It is closed with a culcage of Hon. A. G. Thurman, and introduced his son, alien w. Thurman, as temporary chairman.

At its conclusion Allen W. Thurman, after a few preliminary remarks, launched forth with a denunciation of the Republican party and its methods. He paid particular attention to the acts of the last Congress, which he denounced for the enactment of the McKinley tariff bill and the subsidy bill and its efforts to pass the force bill Continuing, he said:

"The time is here when people will express their belief in complete and not restricted reciprocity; when they will no longer sustain any party which levies and collects one dollar of taxes over and above that which is required to wisely and economically administer the affairs of the government: when they will give due notice that the infant industries that have been nursed for a hundred years, have longed appiause.] Two years ago the great Republican dictator in the full tide of his power and glory in this state was surrounded by his cohorts, an army of office holders of his own making, and

He thanked the convention for the honor conferred and then proceeded to demounce the last Republican Congress for its bad legislation and its attempts to pass the force bill.

General Armstrong of Cleveland moved that the convention adopt the picture of the victorious rooster as a device to designate the Democratic ticket, the recent ballot reform law requiring the selection of some device. The motion was adopted by acclaimation.

The first contest in the convention arose over the report of the committee on credentials. A dispute in the Twenty-fifth ward in Cincinnati and the Hamilton county delegates appeared to fully understand the points in dispute, and T. J. Coogan, secretary of the convention, started to make an explanation while the county delegation was the subject of the wrangle.

The Hamilton county men voted no in a chorus, however, and as if to emphasize their opinion repeated "no, no" for half a minute. While the committee was cut nominations for lieutenant governor war were declared in order for this office.

At this juncture the committee returned with Governor Campbell and as the familiar face of the governor was discovered in the throng, another outburst of enthusiasm marked the proceedings. CHICAGO, July 15 .- The fact that nothing was accomplished at the meeting of the advisory board of the Western Traffic association in New York, causes no surprise in railroad circles here. The president's agreement is still looked upon as a make-shift to tide over a crisis in railroad affairs, and now that the crisis is supposed to be past, it is believed the organization will be permitted gradually to sink out of sight. It is said the disposition made by Jay Gould of his pet scheme for the establishment of a joint agency was premeditated, and no doubt the secret of the opposition is disturted to the conference at the department. In the fiscal year ended June 3 that Gould is looking after his own interest extensively. Another reason was paid to foreign ships $4.397.

As to the credit of $625,000, represented by Keystone due bills, the experts find more or less evidence of payments made from time to time by Bardsley to the president of the bank, which may make up this amount. Whether they are genuine or not cannot be determined until the experts gain free access to the books of the bank. Even assuming them to be genuine, they don't represent deposits made in good faith by Bardsley as a public officer. Public money to which he had no title was taken by him and handed over to the Keystone bank or its president, for no the Keystone bank or its president, for no legitimate reason but apparently for personal advantage and to obtain a higher rate of interest than he received at other depositories. The experts say the numbers of the stubs in the check book of Bardsley's account in the Keystone bank have been torn out. They have, however, found checks bearing the corresponding number, all except one being drawar by Bardsley, to bearer, or to the "order of myself." On the stub of one check is an entry in Bardsley's handwriting at "William Liksey, state treasurer, for his kindness to me during the year, $500." In the fiscal year ended June 30, 1890, just 60 cents was earned by American ships in carrying United States mails to Europe. During the same period there was paid to foreign ships $4,397,608 for conveying mails from the United States to Europe. The postmaster-general seeks by this advertisement to change this unfavorable showing by putting a first-class rapid weekly service on two trans-Atlantic routes, one to Great Britain direct and the other to a continental port. He seeks also by similar means to expediate and make more frequent and reliable mails to Central and South American ports and to Australia and Asia. The details of the arrangements appear in the advertisement. Compendiously stated, the American ports from which the service is proposed to start are Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Newport News, Norfolk, Port Tampa (with service from Mobile) New Orleans, Galveston, San Francisco, Seattle and Tacoma. sued to-day. It cites the act of March 3, 1891, and is unusually explicit, because the act of Congress requires the advertising of the route which must be set forth in full each of the content of the c vestment of capital. Newport News or Norfork has been chosen as the best point for the upper southern coast and Port Tampa (starting at Mohile, New Orleans, Galveston) as the best ports for the lower southern coast. While a small part of the service can be put on immediately, it will require the whole term of three years to put on many of the large ships. Three years is the limit proscribed by law.

The most important requirements are that only American built steamships, constructed after the latest types and with all modern appliances, shall be employed; they must be owned and officered by American citizens, and their crews must contain a certain proportion of American citizens. The use of the steamers as government transports or crulsers upon payment to owners of the fair actual value of the same is stipulated. Bids will be received until 3 o'clock October 26, 1891. The contracts are for ten years.

A Slashing Editorial on Him by Watterson.

WHY HE CANNOT BE THE NOMINEE

ons of Him as Causing Cleveland's Defeat-Not in Sympathy With the Tax Reform Movement.

Special to THE HERALD—Examiner Dispatch.1 LOUISVILLE, July 15.—Henry Watterson has a slashing editorial in the Courier Journal. It is headed: "Governor Hill and the Presidency," and is as follows: in the New York World's Washington letter of recent date we find the following: "Said a elitician of experience here to-day, after reading Henry Watterson's suggestions about the next Democratic national ticket, 'I am afraid Watterson is losing the finer quality of his political sense. He omitted the name of Governor Hill altogether. One would suppose he did not consider the governor big enough even for Vice Presi dent. That, of course, was because Hill gave him a dressing down for writing a certain impertinent letter we heard so much about last year. Watterson's personal dislike of Governor Hill may be justifiably very strong, but it should not have controlled him when writing for the public about a situation in which he knew Governor Hill to be an important factor. The truth is that should Hill be the Democratic nominee next year, his vote in Kentucky would be as large as ever polled there by any Democrat. The fact that Watterson was reproved by him and disliked him, would not cut the slightest figure and probably under such circumstances Watterson would not care to have it cut any figure antagonistic to the nominee of his party."

All of which is very childish, though it is of a piece with the average job lot of newspaper comment of the dog days and is reprinted for the purpose of illustration and example. gave him a dressing down for writing a

The editor of the Journal has not the smallest personal distike of Governor Hill. If the governor and his friends are satisfied with the episode referred to assuredly Mr. Watterson has no desire to disturb their equanimity. In the meantime, however, he does not regard the governor as a probable, perhaps not even a possible Democratic nominee for President in 1835 and for the following reasons:

1.—There is a feeling among Democrats far and wide that Mr. Cieveland lost New York in the last election on account of some deal or dicker with which they connect Governor Hill, and although this does the governor an injustice, it leaves in the minds and hearts of Democrats entartaining in the belief that as Mr. Cieveland fairly earned and won a re-election and was
